

Governmental Program Intensity Standards

Governmental Program

Currently, the only governmental program that will qualify for 1-d-1 productivity on its own is the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP). This program is a federal program that allows producers to put cropland back into grassland. The land owner is paid to participate in this program. Other governmental programs such as brush or cedar control or crop subsidies are normal and prudent ranch maintenance and those programs alone with no other agricultural use are not considered a qualifying use.